5 THINGS YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT

translation of nearly everything

- 1. *Tone offers the translation of nearly everything - personal documents for individuals, and informational material for government agencies, medical and legal industries, marketing, non-profits and the public sector. They also offer editing and proofreading, transcription, voice over recording and narration. They hire quality translators with experience and cultural understanding.
- 2. *Order Tone services online at www.tonetranslate.com or by visiting the office located in the DeSales Center on Genesee Street (across from MWPAI). Mohawk Valley Resource Center for Refugees, Compass Interpreters, Thea Bowman, Mohawk Valley Latino Association and others are also located in the Center. The location reflects tone's mission as a socially conscious organization committed to facilitating understanding and creating opportunity in a multicultural world on the move.
- 3. *The languages available for translation are plentiful. They offer the core languages spoken widely in Utica – Arabic, Bosnian, Burmese, Karen, Nepali, Russian, Spanish, Vietnamese – but no matter what language you need something translated to, they can find someone to help through their extensive network of resources and professional translators.
- 4. *Tone's expertise is grounded in 35 years of experience working with resettled refugees, immigrant communities, and other non-native English speaking populations. As a division of the Mohawk Valley Resource Center for Refugees (MVRRCR) they operate as a non-for-profit organization. Fees generated by the services Tone provides help support the resettlement, integration of, and languages access for, newly arrived refugee families.
- 5. *Tone goes beyond translation and are cultural consultants as well. They employ former refugees, immigrants, and language experts as cultural advisors. They help their clients understand the culture of the people they are translating for at every opportunity.
